

Heartbeat International Works to Strengthen Eastern Europe

By Nathan Burd Director of International Program & Public Policy

Heartbeat International continuously strives to meet our mission of establishing effective life-affirming pregnancy centers all around the world. One region where these services are desperately needed is Eastern Europe. Countries such as the Ukraine, Russia, Romania, and Bulgaria are all near the top of the list of worldwide abortion rates. In many of these countries, below-replacement birth rates and negative population growth have become the norm. The population of the Ukraine, for example, has fallen by 4 million people since the early 1990's.

In an effort to reverse these trends, Heartbeat International and our friends at LIFE International are presenting Compassion and Care, a conference to train those working in lifeaffirming pregnancy center ministries in the Ukraine and Eastern Europe. This conference will take place of UCF "For Human Dignity." Genya helped us reserve the beautiful Puscha Ozerna conference complex and she is also assisting with various logistical details.

The final member of our working group is Philip Barnett, the pastor of the Christ Cathedral Church in Kiev, who began his ministry in the Ukraine nearly 13 years ago. When Christ Cathedral was under construction, it was discovered that the site had been used as a large burial ground for aborted babies. A local hospital official shockingly estimated that nearly 200,000 aborted babies were buried at this location. Rather than removing the remains from the site, Pastor Barnett dedicated a corner of his church property as a memorial and resting place for these aborted children.

Dire economic circumstances throughout the region make it very difficult for people to travel and attend this conference. Because the need is so great, Heartbeat International is determined to provide financial scholarships to enable our Eastern European contacts to come to Kiev to receive training and encouragement.

October 26-29 in the Ukrainian capital city of Kiev.

Over the past several months, we have been blessed to receive conference planning assistance from a five member working group of pro-life leaders in the Ukraine. The working group—including Daniel Myaniskov, who has been involved with pro-life efforts in the Ukraine for several years—has been extremely helpful in coordinating communication between various contacts in preparation for the conference. Other members of the working group are Lena Batina, the director of a pregnancy center in Kharkov, Konstyantyn Panteley, the Deacon of the Greek Catholic Church, and Genya Samborska, the director Christ Cathedral Church is built over the graves of 200,000 aborted babies.

Will you prayerfully consider making a donation to our International Fund to help us provide for people to attend this event? With your help, Heartbeat International can equip Eastern European life-savers with the skills they need to shine a light of hope in their countries.

New Study Supports Abortion Breast Cancer Link

Many of us are aware of the connection between induced abortion and breast cancer because of the work of Dr. Joel Brind, who has written and lectured extensively on the subject. According to a Life News story on August 9, 2005, another study in Britain confirms this link.

A British researcher and statistician, Patrick Carroll, conducted research that reveals abortion is the best predictor of three breast cancer trends. Carroll noted that upper class women in Britain are more likely to have an abortion or to delay a first pregnancy, and this group has higher breast cancer rates. Variations in breast cancer rates can also be explained by differences in abortion rates. Breast cancer rates are greatest in the southeast (116 per 100,000) where abortion rates are higher. Breast cancer incidence is lowest in Ireland (97 per 100,000) where abortion is prohibited. Abortion was legalized in the U.K. in 1967, and breast cancer rates increased approximately 70% between 1971 and 2002 in Britain.

Karen Malec, President of the Coalition on Abortion/Breast Cancer says "Carroll's research is significant because he used national data reporting breast cancers and abortions." As a result, his analysis is free of any "recall bias" that abortion advocates allege in order to dispute prior studies on abortion and breast cancer. For more information see www.abortionbreastcancer.com.

Calling All People of Prayer

The Word of God says that the prayer of a righteous man is powerful and effective. Heartbeat is looking to increase our group of intercessory prayer partners. Because we are instructed to pray without ceasing, we need men and women, young and old, who are committed to taking Heartbeat and all of our efforts before the Lord in prayer. You will receive updates to keep you informed and guide you in your prayer times. If interested, please contact us at Prayer@heartbeatinternational.org.

Sexual Integrity in Belize

By Katy Flood

In July, I had the opportunity to provide training on the Sexual Integrity Program[™] to the Helping Hands Pregnancy Counseling

Center in Belize City, Belize. Belize is a beautiful country with beautiful people. My goal was to teach those in attendance God's design for our sexuality and to help them implement the Sexual Integrity Program[™] at their center with their clients. I was welcomed with open arms by this little open arms by this little center that is all volunteer run. This center is in much need since pregnancy tests are very expensive there. As a result, their services only include options counseling and material assistance. Although it is illegal to have an abortion in Belize, the volunteers know that there are doctors who do provide them. These ladies give much of their time and energy making sure the women in Belize have access to true reproductive health. Keep them in your prayers as they continue to reach out to their community.

More Deaths Lead Father to Speak Against RU-486

Monty Patterson has endorsed Congressional legislation to pull RU-486 from the market while its safety is studied. His daughter, Holly Patterson, died in September of 2003 from an RU-486 abortion. "I feel strongly that this drug predisposes women to serious bacterial infections," Patterson said. "These are the reported problems, and I think there's a serious problem with underreporting in the United States," he said. "Doctors have to be vigilant in looking for signs and symptoms that result from taking this drug and reporting them to the manufacturer." In July 2005, Danco Laboratories admitted that five women had died after using RU-486.

God Brings Pro-Life Awareness Out of Acts of Violence and Vandalism

By Pat Lassen

How many of our PRC's have been featured in hundreds of multi-media reports? How many have had their director and clients interviewed on CNN? The center we're featuring this time has experienced all of this, and more, according to Pamela Palumbo, Executive Director of Bowie Crofton Pregnancy Clinic, Bowie, MD 20716 (www.bowiecrofton pregnancyclinic.org, bcpci@erols.com).

Begun in 1982, BCPC had moved into its newly-remodeled clinic in late 2004 with a 3D/4D ultrasound machine. In the early morning hours of January 22, 2005, Pamela's phone rang. The clinic had been vandalized, with windows smashed and graffiti everywhere. A concrete planter had been thrown through one of the front windows, and the words "womyn haters," "liars," "choice," and the anarchy symbol of the letter A with a circle around it, had been spray-painted on the brick walls, windows, and sidewalks.

Getting the mess cleaned up so the clinic could open on time was the challenge of the day. Police and the mayor had a lot to say about the sort of people who would do such a thing, and the city council offered a reward of $2,500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the responsible parties. It was noted that other pro-life organizations in Bowie and Rockville had also recently suffered vandalism.

BCPC opened as usual. Little did Pamela realize that doors were about to open for the pro-life message, beginning immediately. She found herself in demand for interviews on TV and radio, and in newspapers and magazines. Trusting God to fill her mouth with His message, she responded gladly to the requests, and found that word of what had happened to BCPC soon spread across the country.

AOL's front page featured the pro-life movement's use of ultrasound for 24 hours. The New York Times did a large feature on February 2. CNN interviewed Pamela and one of BCPC's abortion-minded clients who had chosen to give birth to her baby after seeing a free ultrasound. In April, World Magazine did a feature on ultrasound, telling the story of one of BCPC's clients.

People began to respond, and many donated funds to help provide pregnancy centers with ultrasound machines and training. One couple sent a donation of $2 million to Focus on the Family's Option UltrasoundTM Program because of The New York Times article!

E-mails flooded in, some wishing ultrasound had been available before a regretted abortion, others congratulating the pro-life movement on making ultrasound available. Some came from people who had considered themselves pro-choice until they had learned what an ultrasound shows.

Grace Baptist Church, already heavily supporting BCPC, started giving even more, with the goal of paying off the mortgage this year. When this happens, an additional $1,500 per month will be

God truly brought good out of evil!

Although we generally mention Directors' names in the News From Affiliates section, Heartbeat would like to recognize all affiliate staff, Board members, and volunteers for their hard work and dedication, which, although unmentioned, is seen by God and all who benefit from your tireless labor.

HURRICANE KATRINA – We have been unable to reach some of our affiliates in the hardest hit areas. The following information is current as of September 9, 2005.

CPC of South Central Mississippi, Laurel, MS. Claudia Meyers, Director. The center had ceiling damage and was not open. The landlord intends to repair the damage but no timetable has been established. Claudia and her family have been working at their church helping people who need assistance. Baby items are in good supply but non-perishable goods are in high demand.

Pregnancy Resources of Mississippi, Ocean Springs, MS. Rachel Nilsen, Chair. Heartbeat staff reached Rachel at home. She said the center lost its roof and the landlord plans to replace it but she was unsure when the center would reopen. She was unable to reach her staff but had discovered that some of the Board members had minor damage to their homes. She will keep Heartbeat apprised of their needs after the center reopens. (Update: The center has been significantly damaged by water and mold.)

TO BE – Help for Pregnant Women, Fairhope, AL. Sonja Brueck, Director. Their center was not harmed, although some of the staff lost their homes. They are helping a great number of evacuees and are in need of diapers and formula. They can be contacted at 251-928-8661 or at tobehelp@bellsouth.net.

A Woman's Choice PRC, Houma, LA. Kim Evans, Director. This brand new center hasn't officially opened yet, and it is now more important than ever that the center comes to fruition. Although the hurricane miraculously spared their town, located about 40 miles southwest of New Orleans, they are overwhelmed with evacuees needing help. Financial support is needed to open the pregnancy center.

For Your Reflection

by Peggy Hartshorn

As I write, we are still trying to determine the extent of the damage to the pregnancy centers in the Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama areas, devastated by Hurricane Katrina. According to FEMA's Disaster Declaration as of August 29, 2005, 125 counties have been declared disaster areas, and there are 67 centers in those counties. Such a time calls out for our faith, hope, and charity.

Death and life – we have heard stories of both in the chaos of Hurricane Katrina. Not surprisingly, there appeared to be special sympathy and efforts directed to babies. One of our LifeSavers in New Jersey called my attention to the wonderful story in The New York Times of the evacuation of 121 babies, nearly all premature newborns from hospitals in Orleans and Jefferson Parishes.

At University Hospital in New Orleans, where the most fragile newborns were, doctors described dire conditions with "no electricity, no ability to do laboratory work or x-rays, which is very important for premature babies because we have to verify that IV catheters and endotracheal tubes are placed correctly."

After many phone calls, with doctors and others "navigating a maze of bureaucracy," "big green" helicopters finally airlifted the babies. Despite the disarray, the doctor in charge was not aware of any deaths of infants or pregnant women associated with the evacuations!

The smallest baby saved was born 11 weeks premature, two days before the hurricane hit. She arrived in a Baton Rouge hospital three days later, her mother placed in a shelter nearby. According to the newspaper account, she was so tiny that "her head fits into the palm of a nurse's hand."

We thank the Lord for all the lives saved in the catastrophe of Hurricane Katrina, and especially for the treasuring of life demonstrated by the mothers, doctors, nurses, and rescue workers in the story of these premature newborns. Isn't it ironic, even mind-boggling, that the same medical profession that saved these babies is involved in the killing of nearly 4,000 babies every day in the United States by abortion?

We pray unceasingly that our culture will someday come again to respect ALL human life, born and unborn, and we work tirelessly for that day while reaching out to save every mother and baby that the Lord sends to us.
